

From: cathybroad <cathybroad@comcast.net>
Subject: Re: Tim
Date: October 6, 2009 10:16:53 AM CDT
To: <kerrandking@sbcglobal.net>
Cc: "Chris and Pat King" <ckppking@wowway.com>, "Mark King" <mark.king@beamglobal.com>

Good. If there is no such meeting by Wednesday, I myself will move forward to expose these bastards as the foot-dragging, waste of taxpayer dollars that they are. If they will not include Kym Worthy and Cory Williams, the same goes. They are concerned about only one thing: covering their own asses.

Some things I have been thinking about:

1. This is not about Helen Dagner. Shut the hell up about Helen Dagner—her website is not relevant to this discussion.
2. This is not about the MSP either. Get over yourselves, losers.
3. This is about four children who can no longer speak for themselves—nothing more. All other bullshit is just that—bullshit.
4. The reason the fiber evidence is going to take longer is because they have not done jack shit on that stuff and they have had it for almost one year. They are waiting for Quantico to step up to the plate with hair evidence so that they don't have to spend the time on all of the fiber evidence. Of course they have bags and bags of fiber and other crap from the duct system in that house. They knew that late in the day last Oct. 30 after spending over 9 hours in the house. The state lab van was FILLED with evidence when they left that place. They knew it was a big job then and it didn't get any smaller by ignoring it. Do they have the fiber evidence from back in the day to compare this other crap to? Or did that get lost, too?
5. While the msp is protecting themselves, they are also protecting the killers' families at our expense. Were they as concerned about David Norberg's family? Ted Lamborgine's? The other wads they were quick to imply could have been the OCCK? Even if there is no conscious effort to protect the few living relatives of these monsters, that is the effect.
6. They will never adequately look at John Hastings or bring charges against him. You don't need to go through the Georgia courts to arrange for a polygraph. A person cannot be subpoenaed to take a poly—it has to be voluntary or it is worthless anyway and no one can be forced to take a polygraph. Do it or shut up.
7. Money troubles? Manpower issues? Too bad.
8. We are done with the "this is a 3-decades old case; current cases are more important." We have been eating that crap for four years. No, now it moves to the front of the line because we have waited long enough.
9. Consider the pattern—how the MSP has treated us, Det. Williams, Jack Kalbfleisch, Helen Dagner, other people with information who have called them over the years. They have abused our trust and blown off every single deadline. I am not afraid of the stupid commander, commandant, or whatever the hell he is. The Michigan AG should be investigating them. They bog down everything they touch. If the FBI had any balls they would say so publicly, too.
10. They are counting on being able to shut us down again and having us roll over. Ain't gonna happen. I know the emperor has no clothes. Why these guys can't figure out that I have figured that out is yet more evidence of their delusional state.

Finally—"meeting of the task force"—the task force is Gray, Robertson, Cory and some dude from the FBI. Four dudes. How hard can it be?

On Oct 6, 2009, at 8:07 AM, <kerrandking@sbcglobal.net> wrote:

After talking to all of you I called Harold Love at 9:00 and told him that Chris and I wanted to talk to Gray, Williams and Worthy (or her representative) by next Wednesday. He advised me that a meeting of the task force was being organized and he would get back to me. I also told him that all three of you were dismayed at another adjournment request.