Chris Busch had been coming in the store as a customer for the last 2 years or longer. He very seldom used cash, bought most things on a credit card which I assumed belonged to his father. I never saw him with a girlfriend or with other men his own age. He was always with younger boys, which you might think were nephews or neighbor boys. a very polite person, who told us he was a chef in a very good restaurant & was looking for a chef job up in this area, but I really don't think he ever worked at it very hard just by conversations about food. He was last seen here around Feb. 24th that week.
