"In 1976 and 1977, over the course of a thirteen-month period, two boys and two girls, ages ten through twelve, were brutally murdered in Michigan's Oakland County. Their violent deaths triggered the largest murder investigation the state had seen." .....now a ColdCase.....could this be a NEW clue??

Below is unedited transcript segments from a lady, Helen Dagner, who claims to have known the killer. She has been in contact with authorities in the Oakland County area. She contacted me via the "ColdCases Yahoo discussion group" It is our hope to see this case investigated and hopefully come to some conclusion.

TESTIMONY by HELEN DAGNER ~
MARCH 2001

During the winter months of 1976-77, four children between the ages of 10-12 were abducted and killed in towns in and around Oakland County, a suburban area north of Detroit. Authorities said the children were held from four to 19 days before being killed. They had all been bathed after being abducted, thus earning the offender the nickname the "BABYSITTER." VICTIMS: Mark Stebbins, 12, of Ferndale was last seen alive in an American Legion Hall on Feb. 13, 1976. His body was found Feb. 19, 1976, in a parking lot in Southfield.

He was strangled and sexually assaulted, post-mortem, with an object. Jill Robinson, 12 of Royal Oak ran away from her home Dec.22,1976.Her body was found Dec.26,1976,dumped along the side of interstate 75 in Troy. She was killed by a single shotgun blast to the face. She was fully clothed and still wearing her backpack when she was found. Kristine Mihelich,10, was last seen alive Jan.2,1977,at 3p.m. at a 7-Eleven store in Berkley. Her fully clothed body was found 19-days later dumped off a rural road in Franklin Village. She had been smothered to death. Timothy king, 11, was last in a Birmingham parking lot March 16, 1977, at around 8:30p.m. His body was found March 22, 1977, in a shallow ditch in Livonia. He had been suffocated and sexually assaulted post-mortem, with and object. Now who would do such a horrible crime, and why?...Could it be a home town person? Yes, John lived in Birmingham, attended school, and graduated from High School in Birmingham...and when he worked, it was also in Oakland County...why did he do this? When I first met John, I didn't know he was a killer , this was sept.1991,and although I was married to a police officer, I didn't even know that four children had been murder in Oakland county...I had met john for coffee at a restaurant...it was by invitation, the mother of his child, had asked me if I wanted to meet John, I always went for coffee at that time of day, so I said sure...little did I know what was to become of this meeting. The first question John asked me was so what are you doing with your life...why I said this I will never know...but I said it...oh I'm going to write a book on serial killers...he said that is a horrible idea, how could you stand to be around some one like that? I remember saying, "I'm not judgmental". We weren't through with the first cup of coffee..when he asked what I knew about the Oakland child killings, I said nothing, what do you know? The first thing he told me was the guy really took good care of the children...fed them there favorite foods...cleaned them all up...and was very nice to them. I said, "Well why did he kill them?" John said he was saving them from a life as he knew it...that he was probably living in what should have been a well to do community, yet his mother might have had to baby-sit to make ends meet...I said, "John it almost sounds like you know this guy!". He said well i was interviewed by the original task force...I ask how was that? His reply was they were interviewing every one in his age group...we continued talking...then he said would you like to go for coffee tonight, I could probably help you with your book...I said well what I real y need to do is talk to a serial killer...we all laughed, and he said well maybe I can help you to find one. This started a 9 month, daily coffee meeting with John,3-6hrs a day every day...That night I ask John what he thought the killers motive was? He started by telling me, he felt the killer was inadequate socially, most likely couldn't get a girl friend and wound up doing odd jobs like washing dishes. He couldn't get a higher education felt he was cheated out of his rightful place in society...I realized, at some point in the conversation...John was no longer talking in the third person...he was talking in the first! When I was driving John home that night, it started to snow, he was sitting in the front passenger seat, the head lights were cutting a beam in front of us...John went into a trance like state and appear to be completely unaware of anything I said to him or that he was even in the car going down the road...upon arriving at his apartment he seemed to smoothly shift out of the trance state...back to his normal self...the whole thing gave me the creeps. I didn't know at this time that I would see this same thing ...every time I was with John, driving down the road, when it started to snow...It was at least 3 weeks before I realized John was reliving the body drop off nights...once I had this realization...I started asking more questions. He was now talking in the first person...he thought his father had money because he owned 2 homes, but let the family struggle financially, he attended and all boys Catholic school, which made him feel more out of place-something happen at that school, a boy was found dead, and there were rumors of sexual assault, as John told me about this, I felt he had been sexually assaulted...also a boy that was his friend fell off a water tower to his death, John was present when it happen...my thought at the time was John pushed him...he didn't go to the funeral...but his family did. Just prior to the first murder, John's first girl friend, that he had hoped to marry, dumped him- because he was broke, with no prospects....It was then he stared thinking more about the injustices social & financial class system and how he was a victim of it all-He wanted to cause the upper class deep and permanent pain, he decided that since money could be replaced the only way to do it was to strike at their children, besides this was something he could do, were as taking their money was beyond his ability...each killing gave him a sense of power and significance and intellectual superiority...yet some how he felt he was saving the children...at the time of the murders, John was writing a book on the economic collapse, and causing a major depression, ruining the upper class...bringing them down to his level...he was still working on the book when I last saw him. We talked about the murders everyday...a very few words were ever spoken that didn't included the Oakland County child killings...then one night when we were having coffee I told John I was having difficulty...not having ever been to Oakland County...figuring out the body drop off sites...he took 4 place-mats...and drew the areas...I had never seen anyone draw maps like that...they were perfect...just like a store bought map...I was impressed...the next day is when I called the Birmingham police and told them they had to see these maps...and they had to talk to john as he seem to have a lot of inside info. I remember their telling me ,they would have to have more info...so that night at coffee I told John, I don't think you are the killer and you need to give me some information about each one of the kids that only the killer .and the police.,and the family would know...he said are you nuts? When he realized I was going to leave...or he thought I was thinking less of him...he said, "I put a chicken bone in Tim's pocket" I told him I thought I had heard that before, then he said "Kristine had little orange or pink things on her slack's....Jill had a book in her back pack and a quarter in her pocket." One of the boys he dropped off with no shoes...he ended up telling me 300 plus matches to the crimes...then the police came up...he took 2 polygraph's...showed them a pass port were he was out of the country at the death of one child...and they let him walk...I told them Johns passport was a fake...that he had wanted to go into the second pass port business...but they just couldn't get be on the pass port. I remember when they called me, late one night at my daughters...he's not are man Helen...I couldn't believe what he was saying...when they mention the pass port...I asked if they had someone who knew about these things, to check it out...they said no...I then asked, did you ask him were he stayed aboard? No....did you ask him were he ate, who he talked to. NO....well did you check with INTER-POL, yes...but they couldn't confirm...I remember thinking...COP'S!!! In fact, I said it a loud...my daughter, a detective, just looked at me...the next day I called Mr. Robinson, in fact John had given me his number, I came right out and told him the name of the book in his daughters back pack...the next day Det. Anger and some other officer came up to Alpena.. I gave them a sample of John's hair and a note book of facts, we drove by John's apartment. They took some photos...I gave them a photo of John...I didn't realize Det. Anger, had his own suspect...David Norberg...who's body he would, exhume some 8 years later, trying to match his DNA, to a hair found on Tim...so many years had gone by, but when I read were the DNA didn't match...I had to call Anger again and ask him if John's hair had matched...he didn't even remember my giving it to him...he still works with Jerry Tobias, on the case...but he will probably go to his grave...thinking Norberg is the man....but I know better, no child would have gone with Norberg, as he always smelled of liquer. He couldn't feed him self...much less the children, and he certainly wouldn't of bathed the children...and he had nowhere to keep them for the length of time they were held. 8 years after he died, his wife shows up with a necklace...with Kristine's name on it...that was suppose to have been in his personal stuff...it may have been...but it took 8 years to find...when the man didn't own a shoe box full of stuff...besides, I already had met the killer...and yes a child would have gone with John...3weeks ago Tobias told me yes we have to talk to John. So the next day, I called Det. Anger...I thought well if there going to talk to John, I will give them some of my hold back info...he was to busy to talk...was on his way out of the office...when he didn't return my call...I realized it was the old smoke-and mirrors game again. No one was in search of a child killer, at least no one I knew. Somewhere, would I find these people in Oakland County who were still alight with public outcry over the seemingly never ending spate of murders. It's been 25 years....I decided I would join a Coldcase group on
